LEONARD.

The Last Agony of the Young Congressman's Romance.

Havana Letter to Spirit of the Times.

One morning a fortnight ago I happened in at the American consulate, and was introduced to a gentleman apparently about thirty-six years of age. He was above the middle height, and remarkably handsome, dark and Spanish looking. I saw him only for a few minutes, but he made a decided impression on me. I thought that I should never see Congressman J. E. Leonard again. While still on board the steamship Columbus, in this port, he received a letter from her, which had been awaiting his arrival for delivery, and in which she advised him to return to his home. He was not disposed to listen to his overtures. Of course it was impossible for Mr. Leonard to remain on shipboard in the hot harbor. He landed, but only to find he was cruelly jilted, and that he had been so long in pursuit of a heart of stone. His excitement drove him to his bed. His fate came in the shape of the demon yellow fever. His condition spread about among the lady's friends, and they were convinced that his life rested in her hands. They condemned her conduct, and it is said, remonstrated with her for it. On the night before he died, the length of his existence was a woman sent a messenger to his bedside to state that they could meet this spring in New Orleans, and matters might be satisfactorily arranged. A sad smile passed over his face, and in the midst of it might be seen a gleam of resentment. "I do not want that woman," he said bitterly. "I was his last offer, and he was within reach of his cherished prize, with power, perhaps the latent hope, to seize it. Alas! poor human nature; the crisis and the complications were too great. He sank after the momentary rally; the delirium resumed its sway, and he died at 1 o'clock on the morning of March 15.

Feeding the Dead.

From the Sacramento Record-Union.

A large number of Chinese—ten or twelve wagon-loads—went out to the city cemetery yesterday to feed the spirits of their dead, taking with them a quantity of roast pork and such other articles as a well-regulated spirit of the Chinese persuasion is expected to relish. The food was placed upon the graves, and over each grave was poured a bottle of whisky, spirit to spirit. A number of tramps stood among the spectators, and seemed much gratified at the waste of the food. They made up their minds to get even by securing the food after the Chinese left, but the latter have by experience grown smart when they had given the spirits a reasonable length of time to secure a square meal, they loaded up their victuals and brought them back to town.

Married, Despite Objections.

From the Savannah News.

After service in church in Houston county, Ga., Gus Riley, of Houston county, and Mattie Calloway, of Monroe, walked up the aisle, showed the minister a license, and asked him to marry them. He proceeded to do so, but the woman with whom Miss Hattie had been visiting for some weeks objected, saying that Miss Calloway was a guest at her house, under age, and that her father knew nothing about it. The preacher said that that was not a legal objection, but put it to a voted-off congregation whether he should marry "P. C. or not." The congregation voted "solid," "Marry them," and they were married.

Arrest of Thomas A. Hendricks.

From the Detroit Post.

Another sad proof of the evil results of naming children after the police court yesterday when Thomas A. Hendricks, aged 15, was hauled up for stealing a velocipede from W. J. Shanney.

New York Mercury

FORTIETH YEAR OF PUBLICATION.

For forty years the New York Mercury has been before the public, a welcome guest, throughout the length and breadth of the land. The flower of Weekly Journalism, it has kept pace with the march of improvement and progress. As in the Past so in the Future, it proposes to retain its rank as the LEADING LITERARY, FAMILY AND MISCELLANEOUS JOURNAL OF THE AGE.

Originality is a prominent feature, especially in its Literary Columns. Its Serial Stories are by the Best Authors, its extensive list of contributors embracing the names of the most celebrated AMERICAN AND FOREIGN WRITERS OF THE FUTURE.

The Mercury has achieved a National Reputation for its Success in Literature and Real Life, a field in which it has no rival. Another specialty is its TABLE-TALK DEPARTMENT.

In which appears regularly the "best thoughts of the best minds," overflowing with diverting anecdotes, vivacious poetry, and quaint conceits. THE HOME CIRCLE.

While the Ladies are also always sure to find in the Mercury articles of living interest to the sex. Children are catered to in a manner designed to instruct as well as amuse.

A RECORD OF PUBLIC AMUSEMENTS.

The Mercury gives every item of public or personal importance in the Theatrical, Musical, Arena and Variety World. Its correspondents, who cover both Hemispheres—ever faithful and industrious—contribute regularly a full, comprehensive and reliable bouquet of information, superior in accuracy and scope to that of any journal published.

SPECIAL FEATURES.

The Mercury is the only recognized favorite of the Volunteer and Paid Fire Departments of the United States and Canada, as it does promptly and exhaustively, all attainable facts and gossip. During the Season of Out-door Sports many columns are devoted to the favorite game of Baseball. Its reports of games, and its tabular records of plays and players, are the best published. THE NEW AND GENERAL DRACKEST.

Always embrace special articles on timely and interesting topics; editorials, condensed news-items, humorous paragraphs, etc., etc.

Altogether, in point of variety, quantity and quality, The New York Mercury is unsurpassed by any journal in the world.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION.

The New York Mercury, with its fifty-six columns of sterling, original matter, will continue to be issued at Eight Cents a copy, and sold by all newsmen and periodical dealers in America. To mail-subscribers our terms for 1878 will be (cash in advance)—Single copies (postage paid), Three Dollars per Annum.

Write plainly the name of post-office, county, and State. Specimen copies sent free to all applicants. Address WILLIAM C. LUDWIG, Proprietor, of the New York Mercury, No. 125 Fulton Street, New York City.
